

Native OKStars Summer Research Program

Program Information

The Native Oklahoma Science Training and Research Students program is designed to encourage American Indian students, in their junior or senior year, to pursue a career in the medical field and contains a cultural component from the Office of American Indians in Medicine and Science.

The Native OKStars program takes place at OSU Center for Health Sciences in Tulsa. Native OKStars begins June 3, 2024, and concludes July 12, 2024. Please check the website for updates and email okstars@okstate.edu if you have any further questions.

Program Benefits

- Participate in a research atmosphere that is usually reserved for graduate students
- Work with a Native American faculty mentor and medical student mentor
- Learn about the various paths to medical school and careers in STEM
- Participate in Research Day at OSU Center for Health Sciences.

Program Dates

Dates: June 3, 2024 - July 12, 2024

Application Process

We are now utilizing Infoready for our OKStars applications. You can find the application here: <https://okstate-chs.infoready4.com/#competitionDetail/1929572>

Application deadline will be April 30, 2024.

Contact

For more information contact us at okstars@okstate.edu